

New Irish Note Sets A Date For Another Parley

Game of Leaving Peace Door Ajar Continued in Latest Move

RECOGNITION IS DENIED

Lloyd George Reiterates Refusal to Meet Irish as Independent

GAIRLOCH, Scotland, Sept. 29—Premier Lloyd George's note was despatched to Eamonn de Valera at 11 o'clock. Immediately afterwards the Premier went fishing.

LONDON, Sept. 29—Premier Lloyd George today replied to Eamonn de Valera's note of September 19 inviting the Sinn Fein to send delegates to an Irish peace conference in London on October 11.

The Premier reiterated the cabinet's declaration that Irish independence cannot be recognized and protests that a basis of negotiations cannot be reached through correspondence.

The text of the communication follows:

"Despite the Irish delegation's sincere desire for peace and despite the conciliatory tone of Eamonn de Valera's latest communication we cannot enter a conference on the basis of this correspondence.

"There is no purpose served by further exchange of explanatory argumentative negotiations on this subject.

"The position taken by His Majesty's government on the fundamental existence of the British Empire cannot be altered.

"Notwithstanding Mr. de Valera's personal assurance to the contrary it might be argued in the future that acceptance of the conference upon this basis (the basis outlined in de Valera's note of Sept. 19) involves recognition that no British government could afford.

"Myself and my colleagues are extremely anxious to make arrangements to explore every possible avenue of discussion.

"Therefore we send a fresh invitation for a conference in London on October 11 where we will meet your delegates as spokesmen for the people you represent with a view to ascertaining how the Irish national aspirations can best be reconciled to the government's view-point."

LONDON, Sept. 29—Irish office officials this afternoon predicted an Irish peace conference would be held and that a satisfactory settlement would be reached as a result of Premier Lloyd George's latest note. It is understood that officials are preparing for the enactment of peace legislation which will be rushed through Commons at a special session convening October 18.

American Stores Company Promotes Local Managers

Four local men have been promoted by the American Stores Company, beginning with the sending of John Bowles from the Mill street store to a Philadelphia store, as manager.

Walter J. Buchler, for ten years connected with the Washington street store, and manager of that place, has been transferred to the managership of the Mill street store, a well-merited recognition of his efficiency.

William Mohr, manager of the Buckley street store, has been transferred to the Washington street store, and William Wildman, of the Mill street store, has been made manager of the Buckley street store.

Had Narrow Escape When Anto Backed Into Canal

Through the failure of the brakes to act, an automobile in which two New Yorkers were journeying to Philadelphia, backed into the canal at Morrisville last night. The two men, however, had a narrow escape, as the car was a closed one.

The New Yorkers had detoured through Union street. While attempting to drive up the Union street incline the brakes on the car gave way and the automobile backed down the hill and as it plunged into the water the two occupants jumped out. The accident caused considerable excitement here. The machine was later pulled out of the water and taken to a garage for repairs.

Fatty May Be Tried Within Sixty Days

District Attorney Brady Cautious Regarding Judge's View of Case

ARBUCKLE IS WORRIED

BY ELLIS H. MARTIN
Staff Correspondent I. N. S.
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29—Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, free today after an eighteen days imprisonment, and happy in the knowledge that he will not be forced to stand trial for murder as a result of the death of Virginia Rappe, film actress, prepared to return to Los Angeles.

Almost mobbed by scores of women who desired to shake his hand and shower congratulations on him following announcement of Judge Lazarus's decision late yesterday which held the comedian for manslaughter, but dismissed the murder charge demanded by District Attorney Brady, Arbuckle last night sought seclusion.

From the city jail following his release on bail two hours after Judge Lazarus had dismissed the murder charge, Arbuckle went by automobile to the home of his brother, A. C. Arbuckle, for dinner, from there he disappeared from public view. Frank Dominguez, his chief of counsel, announced that Arbuckle would leave for Los Angeles tonight.

"Thanks, I'm glad it's over for a time at least" was the extent of the film fun makers comment on the decision of the court which he received perhaps more calmly than any one else in the court room. But his missing smile reappeared to express his feelings.

District Attorney Brady has 30 days in which to file the information based on the finding of Judge Lazarus yesterday. He has announced he will proceed on the police court holding rather than the grand jury indictment which will be permitted to die. After the filing of the information, Arbuckle will appear to enter his plea, after which a date for the trial will be set.

"A trial within 60 days" was the consensus of opinion of attorneys on both sides today.

The decision of Judge Lazarus was a bitter disappointment to District Attorney Brady and his staff.

"This action of Judge Lazarus in holding the defendant to answer on a charge of manslaughter is wholly mystifying," said a statement issued by Brady. "The very fact that he has held the defendant to answer on a charge of manslaughter is a demonstration that he should have been held on a charge of murder.

In America I had supposed there was one law for all. I am now told that there is one law for the 'important' defendant in an important case and another law for a 'trivial' defendant in a trivial case. Reduced to its final analysis, a case becomes important or trivial as the defendant is important or trivial. If Roscoe Arbuckle were unimportant and unimportant he would have been held for murder and treated precisely as were the defendants of recent disrepute."

However, the decision of Judge Lazarus seemed well received, especially among the women who sat throughout the hearing. While many of their number were congratulating Arbuckle, other scores were thanking and congratulating Judge Lazarus.

"Now remember, gentlemen," said the Judge in closing, "that murder is the most serious crime known to the common law. The question for me to decide is whether, under the facts adduced by the prosecution here, I am justified in accepting the responsibility of sending this man up to the superior court for trial on the grievous charge of murder.

"And my conclusion is, counsel, that under the circumstances I have no such justification."

Following Babe Ruth Through on His Mighty Swing

Just what will be the feeling of the opposing pitchers when Babe Ruth, Sultan of Swat, faces them in the world series is hard to say, especially if the bases are filled; but if you have a good imagination now is the time to put it to use. They might succeed in speaking a couple of strikes over on Bambino, but with the big one left, Ruth take a toe hold in the ground with his cleated shoes, clinches his jaw and attempts to murder the next ball that is anywhere near the plate. Above are four different poses of Ruth, showing him at the beginning of his mighty swing and carrying it through. The illustration also shows his hard grip on the bat and his keen eyes.

Japan Won't Give Up Equality Demand

Determined to Bring Issue Before League of Nations

CIRCULATE A PAMPHLET

BY NEWTON C. PARKE
Staff Correspondent I. N. S.

GENEVA, Sept. 29—Japan has not the slightest intention of abandoning her fight for racial equality, it was learned here today from sources close to the Japanese League of Nations delegation. Japan is determined to bring the racial equality issue before the League of Nations although probably there will be no action this year. The Japanese are expected to await the outcome of the Far East conference in Washington before making a definite move.

It is now considered likely that Japan will have a majority in the League Assembly whereas last year when the Assembly leaders were catering strongly to American opinion, Japan's chances were slim.

The Japanese delegates are circulating a pamphlet written by George Bronson Rea recalling Baron Makino's announcement at the Paris peace conference that Japan intended to raise the racial equality question when the League is definitely organized and operating.

The pamphlet supports the Japanese contention that Japan must either cross the ocean or acquire economic control of Manchuria and Mongolia with a mandate over a buffer state between them and Russia.

In the face of the refusal of France, England and other big powers to grant credit to Soviet Russia, the assembly has decided to do nothing to relieve Russian famine. The brunt of the relief work will fall upon the United States.

D. Freilijof, Nansen, director of international relief organization, made a sensational speech in which he charged that the statesmen of several countries "were willing to see millions of Russians die if they could end the Soviet regime at Moscow."

This was Dr. Nansen's second appeal to the League for aid. He addressed the assembly committee which had been appointed to consider the advisability of extending help to Russia. Serbian delegates addressed the committee opposing Dr. Nansen's request. The committee then sidetracked action by referring the whole matter to the League Council.

Dr. Swayne To Resume X-Ray Practice in Phila.

Dr. Eugene Swayne, of Harriman will shortly resume practice in Philadelphia, specializing on X-Ray work. He will open city offices at 17th street and Fairmount avenue and will, besides, do X-Ray work at three hospitals in Philadelphia.

He will, however, continue his office and residence at Monroe street and Farragut Avenue, Harriman, and will continue his practice here.

Dr. Swayne, who is a Bristolian, was in the service during the war and was detailed to work at the shipyard. After the war he took up practice in Harriman.

Tempests Brew In Unemployment Meet

Gompers' Secretary Asked to Leave Room by Committee Members

WAGE CUT SORE SPOT

BY MILDRED MORRIS
Staff Correspondent I. N. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—On the surface all is peace in the unemployment conference but behind closed committee doors storms are brewing.

Affairs in the committee on emergency relief by manufacturers where Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor sits with Charles M. Schwab and other prominent "open shop" advocates nearly reached an open clash, it became known today when demand was made for the removal of Gompers' secretary, Guy Oyster, who has attended the sessions of the committee, taking stenographic notes.

Oyster left the committee room. He denied he had been evicted. A few moments later, W. H. Stackhouse, president of the National Implement and Vehicle Association of Springfield, Ohio, chairman of the committee came out with other members. They were plainly nettled and talked together in loud tones.

Another member of the committee later confirmed reports that Oyster's eviction had been demanded.

It is known that Stackhouse has insisted on including wage reductions and the $500,000,000 subsidy for the railroads, proposed by the refunding bill now before congress, in the recommendation of the committee. It was also learned that there was a heated discussion in the committee over whether it should take up "railroad matters."

So far the majority of the committee has supported Gompers.

Stackhouse refusing to discuss what had taken place said brusquely, "I will have a statement this afternoon when the committee has finished its work."

There are also signs of trouble in the transportation committee. W. S. Carter, president of the brotherhood of locomotive firemen and chairman of the committee called on Secretary of Labor Davis, accompanied by Matthew Woll, vice president, American Federation of Labor. A long conference was held. Neither Carter nor Woll would discuss its nature. Carter is labor's only representative on the transportation committee. The committee has been discussing the $500,000,000 refund and wage reductions.

It is looked upon as a foregone conclusion that this $500,000,000 subsidy will be included in the final recommendation of the conference but labor is said to demand that if such recommendations are made they shall specifically call for a guarantee that the money will be spent in the repairs and purchase of new equipment to provide work for the unemployed.

In nearly every committee the wage cut, one of the subjects Secretary Hoover declared taboo, has come up for discussion with the labor representatives making vigorous opposition. (Continued on Page Four.)

Jobless Ex-Service Men Rush Breadline

Try to Force Church Doors To Get Food Handout

WERE FED IN CHAPEL

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—Three hundred ex-service men, out of employment, attempted to force the doors of St. Mark's Church, on the Bowery, in an attempt to get bread. A bread line had been announced at the church. They paid no attention to Frank Adams, manager of the line, who came to tell them food was being distributed at the church and not the chapel.

Not very serious damage was done and the men were finally induced to march to the church along with 200 other men. There they were served coffee, sandwiches and doughnuts. The chapel is to be used as a sleeping place after the meals at the church.

The unemployed who gather in Bryant Park have organized a society among themselves. The society has no name, but a committee of seven men headed by Vincent Vatinier, called on Father Keegan of St. Patrick's Cathedral, who, the committee say, endorsed the plan they presented of using the churches of the city for temporary housing. He also gave them permission to use his name as a representative of the Archbishop, the committee said.

The committee also reported they had called on Rabbi Silverman of the Temple Immanuel, who said, as a private citizen, that he did not see how the synagogues could be brought into the question.

The men insist they will have nothing to do with any of the municipal bureaus which are seeking to aid them, and they also refuse to deal with any of the charitable societies. They must solve in their own way, they insist, and by their own help, the problem which faces them.

Five Dead, Three Injured At Jersey Powder Plant

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., Sept. 30—Five men were killed instantly and three others wounded today when explosives that were being loaded on a truck at Parlin blew up.

The explosion was in the plant of the E. I. DuPont de Nemours Company. The dead and injured men were employed by the George Harrie Salvage Company of Morristown, N. J.

John Harris, Jr., a contractor, who was wounded, was removed from the scene in a dying condition.

There were a series of explosions, the shock being felt ten miles away at New Brunswick, N. J.

The men were employed in salvaging some pipes that had been used in the manufacture of gun cotton. It is believed that some of the explosives remained in one or more of the pipes.

Edison Puts Blame On The Pessimists

"Wizard of Electricity" Has Characteristically Bright Outlook

"GET BACK TO NORMAL"

ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 29—Thomas A. Edison, believes that our economic troubles have been largely brought about by the general pessimistic view of the situation. He also believes that "good times" can be restored by the return of optimism and faith, if mixed with common sense and hard work. If his conclusions are correct, broadcasting the sanguine views of a man in whom the American people have so much confidence ought to do much towards starting us on the upward road.

"These periods of depression come in recurring cycles, he said today, when interviewed in his laboratory." They are nothing new. The point to be driven home is that the country always recovers from them and goes forward with greater strides than ever before. We will get over this one, too. The tide already has begun to turn. Times are getting better now, slowly, of course, but surely. These periods of depression are caused by a faulty adjustment of our economic machine, or by it being thrown out of gear by some unusual force, such as war. The machine is alright; it will work properly as soon as the obstruction is removed.

"We must get back to normal living and spending, forget our fears, our extravagances and our niggardliness, and live as if it were ordinary times. During the war America lost its head. Money was so plentiful, such high prices could be obtained for commodities, jobs paying such big wages so easily could be secured that we fairly wallowed in extravagance. Then came the reaction, and we went to the other extreme. At the first cry of hard times, and as a token of rebellion against high prices, we went on a 'buyer's strike.'

"What we must do is to believe that normal times are close at hand and live accordingly. The manufacturer and miner, if he is optimistic, can as far as the banks will carry him, make up stock for future delivery. The banker, if he is optimistic, can advance money to the manufacturer, as far as is consistent with business principles. The laborer must get back to normal by recognizing that war time wages are past, and accepting a reduction of wages that will enable his employer to sell his goods at a profit. The jobber and retailer must assist in the reorganization by cutting off to profit and loss the difference between prices based on the present wage and the prices which he paid for his goods and the consumer must begin buying normally. The whole people must work in unison with the definite aim of bringing back good times, which they can best do by living as if they were here already.

"We must increase our output. The most obvious way to do so is by exporting more of our produce. This cannot be done until the tariff question is definitely settled. Our trade with most foreign nations is at present largely a matter of barter, because their money is practically valueless—flat money, with nothing to back it. You cannot buck a steel engraving plant and a printing press. Americans are not willing to sell their supplies on any such security; as our dealings with them are necessarily a barter, before we can satisfactorily deal with them, we must know the definite tariff rates on which their produce will be admitted."

Powder Plant Blows Up; One Dead, Three Dying

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 29—With a roar which was heard downtown here, an explosive occurred today at the Excelsior Powder Co. plant at Holmes Park, four miles south of the city limits.

One man is reported dead and three are dying. The number of injured is not known. The blast destroyed one building and was followed by fire which is raging through the plant. Other buildings filled with tons of explosives are near the flames and it is feared that more explosions will occur. The force of the blast shook buildings in the vicinity of the plant and shattered windows. Fire and police reserves have been called to the scene but little can be done to check the fire.

Luminaries At Trenton Fair on Politicians' Day

Bristol Represented by "Pete" Minster, Who Went Early

BIG JERSEY TURNOUT

Governor Edwards and Senators Edge and Frelinghuysen in Throng

This being "Politicians' Day" at the Inter-State Fair, at Trenton, Bucks county in general and Bristol in particular will be ably represented by Register of Wills, Elwood W. Minster. The redoubtable "Pete", got an early start for Trenton and will put in the entire day at the fair grounds, mingling with his legion of friends among the political luminaries and ordinary voters of both Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Elwood G. Minster, his son, and Mrs. E. G. Minster motored to Trenton this afternoon and will return this evening with their father.

United States Senators Walter E. Edge and James Frelinghuysen were to be among the distinguished politicians at the fair today.

The two senators were expected to be accompanied by a large delegation from Washington, comprising men of national prominence.

Numerous other politicians of statewide reputation will attend the exhibition today. Governor Edwards and his staff, together with eminent New Jersey officials and many others have accepted invitations.

Coming virtually on the heels of primary election, "Politicians' day" at the Trenton fair is expected to attract more than the usual quota of political notables and aspirants for office this year.

Local candidates for office, including candidates for assembly, George W. Guthrie, William T. Robbins, William A. Moore, Edward J. Hayden, Richard Stockton, 3d, and Linton S. Marshall are expected to be present, as will freeholder nominees, George H. Hitchinson, William M. Pettit, Charles B. Cole and William A. Weinmann.

Members of the Trenton commissions, headed by Mayor Donnelly, have promised to be on hand, while the county officials will also be found in the delegation representing Trenton.

The guests will be conducted on a tour of the buildings and afterwards will attend the racing matinee and vaudeville show in front of the grand stand.

An impromptu reception will be held in the paddock, where the customary annual "hand shaking bee" will be conducted and the various candidates will greet their friends and supporters.

Newberry Probers Split On Straight Party Lines

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—The special committee of the senate which investigated Henry Ford's election fraud charges against Senator Truman H. Newberry, Republican of Michigan split on straight on party lines today in submitting conflicting reports of its inquiry.

Newberry was absolved from all blame in the report submitted by three of his Republican colleagues while the Democratic minority report held that he was entirely culpable for the expenditure of $200,000 in the Michigan primary election of 1918.

The Republican majority report held Ford's charges of the issue of an alleged "slush fund" to secure Newberry's nomination to have been "bitterly made and vehemently urged" and "wholly unsubstantiated." The majority report was offered by Senator Spencer of Missouri and concurred in by Senator Watson of Indiana and Edge of New Jersey.

It was conceded in the report that amount of money admitted to have been spent by Newberry's friends and relatives in furthering his senatorial aspirations was "large—too large—a larger sum than ought to have been expended." But it was denied emphatically that it was expended with Newberry's knowledge or consent.

On the other hand, a Democratic minority report signed by Senators Ashurst of Arizona, King of Utah and Pomerene of Ohio, which was submitted by the latter, accused Newberry of conspiring with others for debauchery of the Michigan electorate and the violation of the Michigan election laws and the federal statute limiting a senatorial candidates campaign expenses "by the expenditure of large sums of money with his knowledge and consent."

DISTRIBUTION OF WEALTH

The Treasury Department reports that the savings of small investors total $27,000,000,000. Taking the population at 108,000,000, this is $250 for each man, woman and child in the United States. Of the grand total $21,000,000,000 is invested in government securities, and $6,000,000,000 on deposit in 30,000 savings banks.

Laws lay down the principles of freedom and equal rights, but they cannot produce individual independence. Republicanism is only a theory, if it depends exclusively on money which gives a person legislation and sentiment. It is money which gives a person self-reliance and courage, that actually produces democracy.

Accumulation of wealth among a few interests is the worst misfortune that could befall a nation. Although the people might be legally and theoretically free, they would be slaves in fact. Wealth would hold the great majority in industrial subjection.

The wide distribution of wealth or capital is the mainstay of republicanism. The people are stronger and freer if a large number of them, preferably the majority, have some competence. It is better to have a million citizens with $5000 each than one hundred with $50,000,000 each.

It should be the aim of every family to save as much money as possible. A little money should be put in the savings bank every week, and saving should be a habit. Everybody should save some money to own a home and to invest in remunerative securities. Amassing a little capital is the only way to independence.

WHERE FORD GETS TRAFFIC

The prosperity of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad under Henry Ford's ownership and executive supervision is shown by official statistics to be due to the enormous increase of automobiles, motor parts and other tonnage of the Ford Motor Company. Figures compiled by the Association of Railway Executives indicate that bar and sheet iron and similar shipments increased from 20,980 tons in April, May and June, in 1920, to 104,897 in the same months, this year, and automobiles and truck freight from 4490 tons in the three months in 1920 to 208,570 tons for the corresponding months of this year.

In plain terms, the much heralded financial success of the railroad under Mr. Ford's control is due to the fact that Mr. Ford has given the line motor company's tonnage.

The public has an impression that Mr. Ford has revolutionized transportation with a small railroad three hundred miles in length, and it imagines that railroad executives who have been connected with the railroad business all their lives are utterly incompetent. The simple fact is that the change in the fortunes of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton is attributable to the movement of Ford freight on it.

NOTHING NEW UNDER THE SUN

The Einstein theory of relativity is not new, according to Professor Mathias of the Nordjenskind Observatory, who alleges that the modern German scientist stole his ideas from the works of Professor Sohnberg of Heidelberg. Paris savants are taking sides in the bitter controversy, and most of them are supporting Einstein.

Sohnberg a century ago advanced the theory that both time and space were non-existent. Mathias holds that Sohnberg proved these scientific discoveries.

It is scarcely fair to charge a serious investigator with dishonesty. Such an accusation is unjustifiable. In all likelihood, Einstein had not heard of Sohnberg or the Sohnberg theories.

It happens more often, than not, that several persons express the same thoughts at or nearly at the same time, and several persons carry on the same investigations simultaneously. Sohnberg may have reached the identical conclusions recently announced by Einstein, yet Einstein no doubt elaborated his theories of his own initiative.

INSIDE FACTS ARE LEAKING OUT

The late Mathias Erzberger, who was assassinated in the Black Forest, explained to a friend, shortly before his death, that he signed the armistice in order to spare Germany from invasion by the Allied troops. Prince Max of Baden declared that Erzberger would have to sacrifice himself for the nation. Erzberger replied that he hardly knew French. Gen. Goener remarked that the Allies would be in Cologne in three days, and the agreement had to be signed speedily.

Erzberger was of the opinion that Marshal Foch hoped the signing of the armistice would be delayed, so that the armies would keep moving and over-run a considerable part of Germany. He thought, too, that if the envoy were somebody who had taken an active part in the war, the signing would have been postponed purposely until Germany was invaded.

The Voss ische Zeitung of Berlin vouches for the authenticity of the foregoing statement. This breaks down the Prussian contention that, although Germany capitulated, it was undefeated in arms. Of course, the contention is ridiculous; yet, it is worth while to have it repudiated in German sources.

GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP FOR BOSTON

The number of spectators, forming "the galleries," at the national amateur golf championship tournament at St. Louis, was the largest present at any important contest. Several thousands of persons watched the play every day and nearly 10,000 followed Guilford of Boston and Gardner of Chicago in the match which gave the honor to Guilford. Were proof needed to illustrate the growing popularity of golf, this would suffice.

Boston may well prize Guilford's victory. The leading players of England and Scotland took part in the tournament and tried their hardest to win. It was really the international golf championship which Guilford won, and he played consistently in rain and shine, on a dry green and a wet green.

WASTING WORSE THAN DUMPING

Business frowns on the dumping of large quantities of goods on a market. Dumping causes heavy losses to manufacture and workmen and deranges commerce. Every tariff law contains provisions against this disturbing and injurious trick.

Wasting goods which could be put to use without interfering with trade conditions is another device which is resorted to, in a few instances, in a period of depression. Foodstuffs, clothing, coke and other, momentarily unmarketable things are allowed to rot away, or are practically scrapped. Companies or individuals having goods which are unsalable, for one reason or another, should unobtrusively give them to charitable organizations.

Either the nature fakers have forgotten the late Theodore Roosevelt, and are "on the job" again, or else there is a lax enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment wandering abroad, it seems, particularly when applied to pear trees and their blossoms.

A generally reliable citizen, having read in the Courier about the wonderful tree loaded with pear blossoms on the Drake farm, at Upper Black Eddy came into the office today and told the reporter about local example located within a few blocks of the office. He claimed that it eclipsed the tree further up the Delaware Valley.

The reporter, with a vision of a mass of snowy white blossoms, a bouquet of which he hoped to place upon his desk top, went to the location of the tree.

Even at a distance the bloom appeared to lack that snowy hue that is associated with the country-style pear blossom. The informant said, however that Pennsylvania railroad locomotive smoke probably accounted for this physical difference.

A close inspection, though, showed that the "pear" blossoms were actually honeysuckle bloom on a vine which clung to the pear tree. When assured that no possible amount of honeysuckle blossoms could produce a pear, either this year or next, the reporter's informant admitted that the joke was on him.

The reporter still clings to the Upper Black Eddy tree, which he saw, stood under, felt of and smelled. If there are any real pear blossoms spreading their fragrance into the circumbient air of Bristol, they will receive full attention when officially pointed out and fully verified.

Smoking Is American Habit.

Many efforts have been made to show that the use of tobacco was known to the ancient Greeks and Egyptians, but they never have been successful. The belief is generally accepted that the American aborigines were the first to make use of the weed and that Columbus was the first man to chronicle its use.

"Cherry!" he said, kneeling before her in the wet grass. "You know what it means!"

"It means you!" she answered, after a silence. She had laid her hands softly about his neck, and her shining eyes were close to his.

"It's so beautiful—it's so wonderful—to love this way," she said, in her innocent, little-girl voice, "that it seems to me the only thing in the world! I'd come to you, Peter, if it meant shame and death and horror. It doesn't mean that, it only means a man and a woman settling down somewhere in the south of France, a big quiet man who humps a little, and a little yellow-headed woman in blue smocks and silly-looking hats."

"It means life, of course!" he interrupted her. "The hour that makes you mine, Cherry, will be the exquisite hour of my whole life!"

They were silent for a while, and below them the white moonlight deepened and brightened and swam like an enchantment.

"There will be no coming back, Cherry."

"Oh, I know that!"

"There can't ever be—there mustn't be—you've thought of that?" he said, uncertainly. In the curious, unreal light that flooded the world, he saw her turn, and caught the gleam of her surprised eyes.

"You mean children—a child?" she said, surprised. "Why not, Peter?" she added, tightening her fingers, "what could be more wonderful than that we should have a child? Can you imagine a happier environment for a child than that little sunshiny, woody beach cottage; can't you see the little figure—the two or three little figures!—scampering ahead of us through the country roads, or around the fire? Oh, I can," said Cherry, her extraordinary voice rich and sweet with longing, "I can! That would be motherhood, Peter, that wouldn't be like having a baby whose father one didn't—one couldn't love, marriage or no marriage!"

And as he watched, amazed at the change that love had brought to quiet, little inarticulate Cherry, she added, earnestly:

"Allix will forgive us; you'll see she will! Allix—I know her!—will only be sorry for me. She'll only think me mad to disgrace the good name of Strickland; she'll think we're both crazy. Perhaps she'll plunge into the orphanage work, or perhaps she'll go on here, gardening, playing with Buck, raising ducks—she says herself that she has never known what love means—says it really meaning it, yet as if the whole subject was a joke—a weakness!"

"I believe she will forgive us, for she is the most generous woman in the world," Peter said, slowly. "Anyway—we can't stop now! We can't stop now! There is the steamer line that goes to Los Angeles," he mused. "Yes—I believe that is the solution," he added, with a brightening face. "Nobody you know goes there on it; it leaves daily at eleven, and gets into Los Angeles the following morning. From there we can get a drawing-room to New Orleans; that's only a day and a half more; and we can keep to ourselves if by any unlucky chance there should be any one we know on the train—"

"Which isn't likely!"

"Which isn't likely! Then at New Orleans we go either to the Zone, or to South America, or to any one of the thousand places—New York, if we like, by water. By that time we will be lost as completely as if we had dropped into the sea. I'll see about reservations—the thing is, you're too pretty to go quite unnoticed!" he added ruefully.

He saw a smile flicker on her face in the moonlight, but when she spoke, it was with almost tearful gravity: "You arrange it, Peter, and somehow I'll go. I'll write Allix—I'll tell her that where she's sane, I'm mad, and where she's strong, I'm weak! And we'll weather it, dear, and we'll find ourselves somewhere, alone, with all the golden, beautiful future before us. But, Peter, until this part of it's over we mustn't be alone again—you mustn't kiss me again! Will you promise me?"

As stirred as she was, he gathered her little fingers together, and kissed them.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Sept. 29.—Among the women called to serve as petit jurors in the Bergen County Circuit Court was Miss Leah DeMott, of Englewood. She was the only one of five women called who asked to be excused from jury duty. When asked her reason she said:
"I didn't ask to be selected as a juror."

"Well, I don't feel like serving," she said.
She served.

Forrest Theatre

In "The Feast of Life," shown at the Forrest Theatre tonight, Aurora Fernandez, a poor Cuban girl is persuaded against her will to become betrothed to Don Armada a wealthy Cuban. She loves Pedro, a young fisherman who lives with his uncle Father Venture and his sister Celida, who has been secretly stealing to Don Armada's Villa but is cast off by him on his engagement to Aurora.

Longing for a sight of Pedro disguised as a dancing girl Aurora, who is Clara Kimball Young, goes to an inn where Pedro comes with other fishermen for night's revelry. He does not recognize her as his "Lady of the Lily" as he calls her, but falls a victim to the charms of the dancing girl.

Celida dying of a broken heart, confesses to Pedro and Father Venture and Pedro to avenge Celida, summons all the fishermen in the village and leads them against Armada in whose villa the wedding feast is being held. The guests fly in terror and Armada is wounded, Aurora alone remains undaunted, and Pedro, finding her recognizes not only his love of the tavern but Aurora, and that she is the wife of Armada.

Notwithstanding her pleading not to kill her husband, he is about to strike when he sees that Don Armada is blind, this awakens his pity and he leaves the house.

Don Armada has an operation performed on his eyes which proves successful but the physicians warn him that any shock may result in blindness for life. Aurora in the meantime, has been carrying on clandestine meetings with Pedro and Armada hoping to find out who Aurora's lover is, tells her that the operation has been a failure. He intercepts a note from Pedro and locking Aurora in her room, stabs Pedro. He then returns to Aurora and she discovers that he has done, but the shock kills him. Aurora escapes and finds Pedro still alive, she takes him home where she watches over him, and the crisis over, the lovers are reunited.

New Colonial Theatre

Corinne Griffith has begun talking to herself. This is not from any mental vagary, however. The story of "The Broadway Bubble," which will be shown at the New Colonial Theatre tonight requires her to do so.

In many scenes of the sensational drama the radiant young star appears as two different women, and very different, in spite of the fact that their features and their figures are the same.

When Drina has just arrived in New York from a country town where she has been employed as a poorly paid stenographer, the twins are dressed quite differently, for Mrs. Landreth is the wife of a millionaire, and possessed of a cultivated taste for dress.

The unmarried sister is induced to pose as her twin, under extraordinary circumstances, and strange complications result.

Corinne Griffith is widely known as the best dressed woman on the screen. At least one of her past productions has enabled her to wear as many as forty different gowns, frocks, deshabilles and other garbs, but this record is exceeded in "The Broadway Bubble," for which the star was compelled to enlarge her already voluminous wardrobe.

SCHOOL NOTES

Francis E. Willard Day was observed yesterday in the Jefferson Avenue school. In the primary grades, the teachers endeavored to get the pupils to understand who the great disciple of temperance was and to remember her name. In the grammar grades, a brief sketch of her life was given the scholars. They were told who she was and what she did.

Selections from her writings were read by the pupils.

On entering the second Grade A room at the Washington street school there is to be seen a novel display of "Good Things To Eat," made from food advertisements clipped from magazines.

On Friday the pupils of the Fifth Grade Washington street school were given their first lesson in the use of water colors.

Every pupil in the Washington street building has been given a tube of dental cream as an incentive in the "Clean Teeth Crusade."

The second grade Washington street school had 100 per cent attendance on Tuesday the 27th.

The outstanding feature of the conference is labor's conciliatory attitude. Its policy, as indicated by its leaders is "get men back to work" and to steer clear of all controversial questions to accomplish this object. It is determined not to be forced into a position which would lay the responsibility for any break in the conference on its shoulders according to one of the leaders, it does not intend to "repeat its performance in the President Wilson's first industrial conference." Secretary Hoover as guiding head of the conference stands in the position of a mariner steering a ship through a stormy waters. All his well known tact and skill have been brought into play to keep peace.

Police Chief Is Also Police Prosecutor

CLEVELAND, Sept. 29—Edward G. Krauss, of East Cleveland, a suburb, occupies perhaps an unusual position. He holds the dual roles of Chief of Police and Police Prosecutor.

Krauss has been Chief of Police of the city for six years. A few months ago he was appointed Police Prosecutor.

"It works fine," he said today. "The two jobs go hand in hand. My men go out and bring in the prisoners, and I see that the prisoners get what is coming to them—if they're guilty."

Krauss was graduated from a law school and was admitted to the bar while working as Chief of Police. Shortly afterward he was appointed Police Prosecutor by the City Manager.

Nan Patterson Bobs Up In Fight Over Washtub

YONKERS, N. Y., Sept. 29—On July 29 last Nan Patterson, original "Flordora" sextette beauty, who was tried on a charge of murdering Caesar Young some twenty-odd years ago, was doing her own washing in a small apartment here.

According to the story she told Acting City Judge Charles W. Boote, in court, Francis S. Feich, her landlord, who lives in the same building, wanted the use of the washtubs for his family, and in a discussion which arose he grabbed Miss Patterson, she says, pushed her back over the tub and choked her.

Right then it started, Miss Patterson told Judge Boote, and when the argument was over the former "Flordora" girl had command of the washtub and immediate vicinity, while Mr. Feich lodged a complaint of assault against his tenant.

The complaint was not in court, so Judge Boote dismissed the case.

Could Not Find An Old Time Bar For Movie Scene

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29—Shades of Bacchus, grandfathers of bootleggers and ancestors of home brew!

A "movie" company searched Southern California high and low for an old-fashioned polished mahogany bar, with a mirror behind it, and failed completely in its mission. The film people wanted it for a "prop" to live up to some scene of the "good old days."

A few years ago there used to be 200 mahogany bars in downtown Los Angeles. Their owners paid men high wages to keep them polished off, while whole armies of other men paid liberally for the privilege of lining up on the other side. A few of the old bars are used in soft-drink parlors, but the others have disappeared.

So the "movie" people had a scout headed for San Francisco to try to locate a bar.

Starts New Wall Paper Plant That Has Future

The birth of an industry that may loom large in the industrial Bristol of the future has occurred in the starting of a factory for the manufacture of tinted wall paper. The sponsor of the new industry is William C. Wilson, of Bristol and the factory is in Hulmeville. Business will be conducted from Bristol.

The line of tinted wall papers is known under the trade name of "Wilson's Original Tints," and they are claimed to be the finest of their kind on the market today.

The tint is a calomine like paint which is made by special process known to Mr. Wilson and applied to the paper by a like process so as to form a beautiful and serviceable wall decoration, in a variety of delicate colors.

Mr. Wilson has had long experience in the manufacture of wall paper and has perfected a number of processes of manufacture.

Aldrich's Critic.

"As time went on," says Ferris Greenslet of Thomas Bailey Aldrich, "he was growing increasingly fastidious in the revision of his prose, and in the end he smoothed and tilled it with the same loving, fumbling care that he bestowed upon his poems. As he wrote in one of his letters: 'There is only one critic I stand greatly in dread of; he becomes keener and more exacting every month; he is getting to be a dreadful fellow for me, and his name is T. B. Aldrich. There is no let up.'"

False Diagnosis Preyed On Mind And Casued Insanity

GENEVA, Sept. 29—A tragedy of mistaken diagnosis has been enacted here.

The son of a wealthy Swiss banker was sent to Stuttgart to learn German. He fell ill and a woman doctor who was called in declared him to be suffering from hereditary disease.

The boy returned here and physicians who saw him declared that the woman doctor had been mistaken. He was perfectly healthy.

The verdict, however, has so preyed on the boy's mind that he has been sent to an asylum as hopelessly insane.

Few Can Afford Gloomy Face.

It is natural to love the sunshine of life and to dread its shadows and storms. How much does this trait in human nature affect us in our business career? It has indeed so much to do with it that the only man who can really afford a sad countenance is the one whose fortune is already made and safely salted away in government bonds.—Exchange.

Bullfrog Stuck to Machine.

A big bullfrog, although uninvited, took a ride in an airplane in the Philippines, and the pilot was unable to spill him out into the atmosphere even though he performed all the stunts of an aerial circus.

VICTIMS RESCUED

Kidney, liver, bladder and uric acid troubles are most dangerous because of their insidious attacks. Heed the first warning they give that they need attention by taking

"Bonanza" Signifies Good Fortune.

"Bonanza" is a Spanish word meaning "fair weather" or a "favoring wind." It is used in mining districts to signify an abundance of precious metal or rich ore. The miners of Comstock Lode, a wonderful gold and silver mine in Nevada which yielded 340 million dollars worth of ore in thirty years, first used "bonanza" in this way. The word is now also used to signify any good fortune or successful enterprise.

Love of Country Natural.

There is a necessity that all men should love their country; he that professes the contrary may be delighted with his words, but his heart is still there.—Ben Jonson.

Mosquitoes Prevent Rice Production.

Although rice is the staple diet of the population of Ceylon, it is nearly all imported. Malarial mosquitoes breed so freely in the rice fields that laborers cannot work there.

"The Great American Novel"

A Story Typical of Every Small Town in America

WHAT THE CRITICS SAY ABOUT MAIN STREET

London Nation—"It stands out among American novels of the last ten years as the ablest and sincerest effort to depict the inwardness of American life."

Heyward Brown—"Best novel of the year."

William Allen White—"Our town should vote bonds to distribute 'Main Street' in every home and compel its reading in the public schools. It ranks with Hawthorne's SCARLET LETTER."

N. Y. Times—"There was never better dialogue written."

Baltimore News—"Comes nearer being the great American novel than any other book we have seen."

San Francisco Chronicle—"The best story we have yet seen which is concerned with the social and domestic problems of the modern woman."

The Boston Post—"Has jumped spectacularly into the best sellers because it is real and because it is not one sided."

The Nation—"Would add to the power and distinction of the literature of any country."

Atlantic Monthly—"There is no reason why any one should ever write another novel about contemporary life in a small country town. Gopher Prairie is every small town in North America and its 'Main Street' is the continuation of 'Main Streets' everywhere."

A Neighbor's Plan

One of your friends is quietly building up a snug little fortune. You will be surprised some day and wonder how he did it.

But it is a very simple story.

This man does not have a large income. He has never made a large savings deposit in his life. Small deposits made every week is the secret of this man's success. His savings account shows a steady climb for years.

The average man fails to win because he is not willing to make small savings deposits and make them as often as possible.

Most any one can see the importance of making a big deposit—but many fail to understand the value of the small ones.

Think it over. ONE DOLLAR WILL START A SAVINGS ACCOUNT WITH US.
